New Mass Notification System - Texting Capabilities

For the last several years, BBCHS has utilized Infinite Campus to communicate important messages with families, parents, and students. While Infinite Campus has worked well for us in many ways, their product excels as a student information system rather than a communication system. Last year we began the process of seeking out a platform that would better serve our district needs.

With the effort of keeping school communications streamlined, we will now be utilizing the Blackboard/Finalsite Mass Notification System. Blackboard/Finalsite is our current website provider. Their products provide a platform that allows us to communicate with families in the most effective way. The largest and most exciting change is that the district will now have texting capabilities to families.

So what does this mean?

This letter will be the final communication using the old platform. Beginning Wednesday, January 25, all messages will be sent via the new platform. A test message will be going out to all parent and guardian contacts via text and email on Wednesday, January 25 at 11 am. If you do not receive this message, it is crucial that you contact our student services department to update your contact information. Your current information on file is what will be utilized for all communications including emergency situations.
